

alot of Poetry is a Nigerian-South African poet and spoken-word artist. Her diverse poetic works range from socio-political commentary as an African-Immigrant Woman to the complex experience that is being alive. Amidst her Kinesiology studies at The University of Calgary, she delved into performance and arts community engagement. Collaborating with Arts Commons, CSPACE, The Grand Theatre, and AuArts and her Alma Mater.

Her pieces have been exhibited at Gallery@501 and featured in academic and art publishing. As the founder of Poetic Designers, she aids independent artists in navigating art and business through brand and web design. With moving performances, she fosters unity, urging self-love and empathy. Explore her upcoming work and events at alotofpoetry.com.